

A DAY IN THE LIFE OF KNOWLEDGE WORKER, SARA

See how HP Anyware drives everyday performance

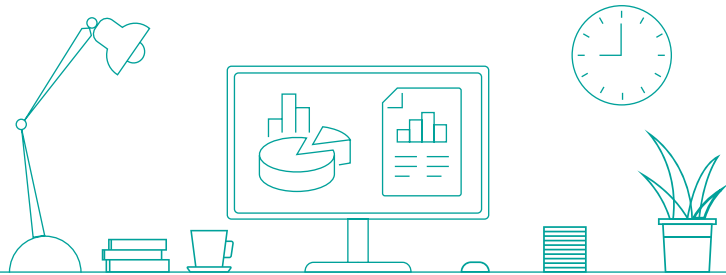

Hybrid work has lots of benefits, but data security, technology integration, and IT maintenance can be a challenge. HP Anyware is a digital workspace solution that overcomes these obstacles. This document explores its practical features for Knowledge Workers, so you can confidently sell HP Anyware to customers with this user type.

Meet Sara, a Financial Analyst

Sara works for a global investment firm, analysing market trends, preparing detailed reports, and collaborating with global stakeholders. Balancing data security, accessibility, and productivity is crucial for her hybrid work setup.

See how HP Anyware supports Sara's typical day:

Home working: 9:00 AM–11:30 AM

Sara securely accesses sensitive financial data stored on her company's central servers.

- Multi-factor authentication and encrypted pixel transmission let her work from a personal laptop without compromising on data security
- Zero Trust architecture ensures she can only retrieve the files she needs
- PCoIP technology enables a seamless experience without downloading or transferring data to her device, maintaining security and compliance

Local coffee shop: 12:00 PM–1:00 PM

Sara uses her tablet to review a client presentation.

- Device-agnostic compatibility means she can switch effortlessly between her laptop and tablet
- Dynamic network adaptation adjusts to variable Wi-Fi speeds to improve productivity

The office: 3:00 PM–5:30 PM

Sara has a hybrid meeting.

- Real-time collaboration features let her discuss and edit reports with remote-working colleagues
